Local Rustlings.

Mathews' addition is nearing completion.

Cerrillos business men are all enjoying a good trade.

The coal shipping business is larger than ever before.

Subscribe for the RUSTLER. The paper needs your patronage.

Richard Green's new addition to the Palace Hotel, is building nicely.

Ducks are slow this fall about coming down from the northern country.

The Glee Club will give a musical entertainment the middle of next month.

Work on L. G. Jones' second two-story business house is progressing rapidly.

Look for Laudenslager's big new advertisement next week. Bargains galore, will be offered.

County Superintendent Victory says there will probably be funds and that the public schools of the county will be opened December.

Give Cerrillos a start once and she will go ahead of every other town in the Territory. She is likely to have that start inside of a year.

Parties from the east, we understand, have purchased interests in Mr. Conger's mine east of San Pedro, and will proceed at once to put up a mill to treat the ore.

A party of prospectors comprising Messrs. Uptegrove, Bennett and Anderson, were out a couple of days this week. The mineral world may soon expect to be startled.

Harness, saddles, bridles, robes, whips etc., at the Cerrillos Harness Store. Special attention given to repairs, carriage trimming, etc. Best of work and material furnished.

The demand for winter supplies of Cerrillos coals, all over New Mexico, Texas, Arizona and portions of Colorado, proves how well established is the reputation of our coals for superiority.

The Simer brothers returned from their plains hunt Monday, having bagged eight antelopes. Seven of the carcasses were brought to town. The boys generally get game when they start after it.

Mrs. M. E. Owsley died at her home in Cerrillos, on Tuesday morning, at 6 o'clock, from lung trouble. Her age was 42 years. She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her loss. They have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

The Cerrillos mining district has about 2,000 prospects, or claims, on which more or less work has been done. These claims will probably nearly all come into market or be worked at no far distant period, which would mean the employment of a very large number of men in the district.

The New Mexican states that the contract has been let for a 100 ton concentrator at San Pedro, and that the superintendent of construction is daily expected.

Tom D. Gill, an English prospector and mineralogist, who for some time has been operating around San Pedro, left Cerrillos yesterday for Washington, where he will report to a representation of his people.

To be an adept in the school composite of word architecture, is no mean gift. The man who can say pretty things with tongue or pen; who can embellish bright pyramids of thought with the cultured language of flowers, must scintillate as a gem, no difference how rough may be the setting.

Were the titles settled to our coal claims, the rapidly growing demand for these superior qualities of coals, produced only from the Cerrillos fields would be sufficient to induce the railroad company to build a switch to the banks, thus enabling the coal to be produced at a greater profit to operators.

The feast of St. Joseph was celebrated at the Catholic church in Cerrillos on Sunday, in imposing style, the service being largely attended by people of all classes. On Saturday night the firing of anvils was kept up for some time. Father Defouri brought a singer and violinist from Santa Fe. In the forenoon Sunday, high mass was held.

This paper has mentioned before that if a town in Kansas had one half the resources which surround Cerrillos, it would have 100,000 people in a year. There is no question but that Southern Santa Fe county, in which portion Cerrillos is centrally located, has countless millions in her minerals. Some day all of these resources will be developed. Then Cerrillos will come to the front as the city of New Mexico.

The RUSTLER has to rustle to collect about one dollar out of ten. The paper is censured for dumping persistently through its columns. All it has to say in regard to that is, "oh, for a new vocabulary, that we might find language strong enough to dun with." If you don't owe the paper it don't mean you and you can rest assured you are on its roll of honor. If you do owe the paper, it does mean you—earnestly, sincerely, emphatically!

A hunter—foot-sore, weary and hungry, arrived at a lake near Watrous on Monday, at the hour of noon. In his pocket was cigars, but nothing to eat. Two Americans, also duck hunters, were camped at the lake and in his presence opened up their ample stores and began to eat. The solitary hunter looked longingly at the viands and then, as a starter, proffered cigars. The rivals modestly affirmed that they did not smoke. Then party of the first part, in disgust and sadness of heart betook himself to a Mexican's ranch half a mile away. On asking for dinner a pleasant "si signor," was the greeting, and soon warm tortillas, meat and steaming coffee were placed before him, for which he had the greatest difficulty to get the host to accept remuneration. In the matter of hospitality, the American citizen often suffers by comparison with the Mexican. In this case the Americans were a disgrace to the name of hunters, and should we style them hogs, we should have to doff our hat in humble apology to an insulted beast.

Fresh meats and vegetables always on hand at Geo. R. Bailey & Co's.

Personal Rustlings.

Prof. Chase is looking after property interests in Albuquerque.

Geo. R. Bailey made a business trip to Watrous the first of the week.

Charles Littlell has donned the diamond at Mathews & Shoecraft's popular resort.

Collector of Internal Revenue, L. A. Hughes, was in town Tuesday, interviewing friends.

Wm. Mayle, the enterprising and prosperous Lamy merchant, has been slightly on the sick list this week.

Mrs. Utt, who has long been a demented woman of Cerrillos, was removed by the authorities to Santa Fe, this week.

Mrs. Dr. T. J. Henkens, of Burlington, Kansas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gould, arrived to visit her parents, Wednesday.

John T. Forsha, of the Exchange Hotel, Santa Fe, was in town yesterday, looking after his townsite addition to the city of Cerrillos.

Randolph Kelley, staunch, honest, reliable; isn't a candidate, only for business and the friendships of the people—all of which he has.

Gent's genuine Kangaroo Shoes at Mrs. Duyle's. Also complete line of Ladies' Gent's and children's underwear.

Political Rustlings.

Register this week. Last chance.

W. H. Nesbitt will get there in good shape.

Mr. Catron benefits the poor people instead of living off of them.

A Republican majority of 1,000 is counted on from Bernalillo county.

Romulo Martinez was in town last week, but strangely enough failed to call on the RUSTLER.

Thos. P. Gable, Abe Gold and John P. Victory were among the visitors to the RUSTLER office yesterday.

Let the next legislature do away with the fee system and fix the salaries of all county officials. Also create the office of county surveyor.

The fee system has been and always will be corrupt. Pay a man a reasonable salary in an office and he cannot afford to spend thousands of dollars with which to secure his election.

W. H. Nesbitt and S. W. Bonner made political speeches at Galisteo last Saturday night. Malicious Democrats says they danced the Can Can at a fashionable ball afterwards, but that isn't to be credited.

One of the means of electioneering in this campaign among a number of the candidates, is by attending ballies. The massive intellect of the candidate is at once discovered as the wierd music of the Tom-Tom floats through the room and autumn breezes waft sweet perfume of sweat and bar's oil. Oh, New Mexico! greatest of all aspiring Territories!

Ballots must be printed as prescribed by law, uniformly and with the device adopted by the party the names of whose candidates they bear, adopted in convention assembled. No pasters can be used, and if a mixed ticket is voted, the name of a candidate rejected must be carefully scratched and the name of the one substituted written with pen and ink. On the tickets to be used at the coming election the device adopted by the Republicans is the American flag. That of the Democrats is a rooster.

On the opposite page is published the affidavits of Hon. Henry L. Waldo, solicitor, and Geo. T. Anthony, resident director of the New Mexico and Southern Pacific railroad company, stating that every bond issued by the county was received by them. This entirely demolishes the campaign lies published to injure Mr. Staab, who was at the time mentioned county commissioner, and to the effect that $16,000 of the bonds were never delivered to the R. R. Co. The story was a very weak one at best, and its prompt showing up as a black-mailing scheme, will with Mr. Staab's well known business qualifications, secure his election by a good majority.

Joseph B. Mayo, the southern Santa Fe county candidate for Representative, is a first class man. He has been instrumental in giving employment to many deserving people, and has had under his management gigantic schemes of the greatest importance to the county, and which may yet be brought to such a degree of success as to produce to the county millions of dollars. Mr. Mayo is a business man of well known integrity, and a man whom Santa Fe county cannot afford to have defeated. His election means more to the people than simply electing a man to fill the office.

Hon. T. B. Catron is a pioneer of Santa Fe county. As a citizen he has done more for the county in securing public and private improvements, than every delegate in congress together have succeeded in doing. At present, out of his own means he is making some $40,000 to $50,000 improvements, of the most substantial character in Santa Fe. He has proven himself able and public spirited, always ready to extend a helping hand. He is one of those peculiar men who bears under a sometimes gruff manner, the most kindly of hearts, and is acknowledged to be the most "brainy" man in the Territory. Just the man for the council!

A Democratic speaking was held last night. Gable, Croamer Martinez, Delgado and Victory, made spread-eagle speeches, which were applauded at the usual signals. The audience was well sprinkled with Republicans, whom curiosity led to be present.

Joseph B. Mayo.

The following communication comes from Golden, the home of Joseph B. Mayo, candidate on the Republican ticket for representative:

Golden, N. M., Oct. 22, 1890.
EDITOR RUSTLER:—The following given space in your paper will express the sentiment of the voters of this district: We the voters of San Pedro and Golden, are highly pleased with the nomination of Mr. Mayo for the Assembly. He is a fair business man; well educated and well fitted to represent us in Santa Fe. He has large interests here and has done more than any other man to develop our resources. He has engaged men for years to this end, by the hundreds. His interests are many and what is for his good, is for the good of the whole county and its people. He is one of our greatest benefactors, and to know him is to respect him as an honorable man. He is not a politician, nor did he seek the candidacy; neither did he accept until after many earnest entreaties from our best citizens. We can well afford to submit to his care all of our important interest at Santa Fe. His reputation is above reproach, and when we say we are proud to endorse him, we voice the sentiment of the whole community.

VOTERS.

Some of the fossilized Democrats are still harping on the statehood question and appear to be afraid New Mexico will yet become a state. This is the class of men who more than the natives, have held New Mexico back. This the class, through whose stagnating influence, Cerrillos, instead of being a city of thousands, as she should be today, is still a struggling village. If any class of men deserve to be banished from a would-be progressive territory, it is this class.

A. E. Laudenslager has succeeded in building up one of the largest business that any merchant has ever enjoyed in Cerrillos, and that too, in the very short period of six months. He takes a just pride in this fact, and the RUSTLER chips in to claim a portion of the credit as due to his liberal use of Printer's Ink. Rustling business energy and capability, coupled with liberal and continual advertising, will win. Either of them, separated from the other, can prove but a partial success. Mr. Laudenslager carries a full and complete stock of Groceries, provisions, bakery goods, general notions, confectioneries, fruits and vegetables, and wholesales liquors, wines and beers. He invites the custom of everybody, and will endeavor by fair and liberal dealings, to give them the best of satisfaction.

Application for a Patent.
